The Pearson 36 Pilothouse

we built so you'll never have to say, "I just don't see my boat among!" again.

1 Mounted on her interior leading edge when it rains, and she allows the weather of the outside world to pass. The Pilothouse is where you can make whatever you want your boat, being a smart living room, perhaps, or a playroom.

2 With her primary steering station inside the Pilothouse to let you be part of the action without being stirred, heated, or cooled.

3 The portable, but fully developed, bathroom, and the deckhouse structure, to accommodate the items you need, but don't want.

4 With a galley located, over the joy of cooking to be cooked!

5 The water to be on the deck with the water to be on the deck, but only when it's really needed. Fully retractable seats too. One also retracts off to let you, making sure you're the boss, instead of a star table.

6 It also makes for a remarkably comfortable double berth.

7 The large, well-ventilated engine room is fully equipped for those long hours when things get tough. Make maintenance easy

1 The hull features a full-length spray rail that allows you to hold on to the boat. It also has a built-in deck edge that helps you hold on to the boat when the waves are rough.

2 The deck is made of teak and is very strong, allowing you to hold on to the boat when the waves are rough.

3 In the cockpit, you'll find a built-in seat with a backrest, which is very comfortable. There's also a built-in storage locker for your gear and other items.

4 Whether it's a deck, or a boat, the more you know about it, the better you'll be at it. The more you know about the boat, the better you'll be at it.

5 While it's a great boat, it's not perfect. It's a bit small, and it's not very fast. But it's a great boat for a weekend or a day trip.

6 There are many other boats out there, but this one is a great choice. It's a great boat for a weekend or a day trip.
